

FAITH HEALER'S AMAZING POWERS

THE CHIMES ring out from Danny Gallagher's ice cream van, but an eerie silence filled the street. And there was no sign of the tiny crippled girl that Danny always saved a free ice cream for.

But just as he was pulling away, he looked back and saw her crawling towards his van.

"At that instant, something struck me that I would have to help the child," he recalls.

Danny plucked up courage, entered the girl's house and he told her parents that he had a strange feeling he might be able to cure her.

Soon he was eight. Danny had been vigorously swart that he had a strange power over illness - partly inspired by the knowledge that he was the seventh son of a seventh son.

Though their little girl had been paralysed from the waist down for some time, the parents accepted this astonishing offer.