

Danny's faith aims to heal it for Beckham

By Staff Reporter

A MAGHERA man famed for his healing powers is on the sub-bench to help David Beckham make the World Cup.

Faith healer Danny Gallagher, who has healed thousands of people across the world, has been put on standby for the England and Manchester United star.

The seventh son of a seventh son wrote to Beckham six weeks ago after he suffered the much talked about metatarsal injury to his left foot and offered his help.

And two weeks ago the senior doctor of the Man Utd team replied by letter to let him know that he was on standby to come and see Beckham.

Danny has performed miracle cures, restored sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf and has even healed the paralysed and those with cancer.

He simply lays hands on the ailment and says a confidential prayer.

"I am not sure how it works. I just know it is a gift from God. As a church attender, I believe that God has picked me to deliver his healing to his people.

Recently Danny met Who Wants To Be a Millionaire host Chris Tarrant at one of his healing clinics in Birmingham.

Chris was quoted in the Press as saying Danny had "a God-given talent."

Danny said: "When I first met Chris I could see he was indeed very sceptical and he even thought I was a con man.

"However, after seeing people being healed, he had to change his mind."
